MALONE, N. Y., May 19.-V. President Wheeler arrived home ye terday accompanied by Mrs. Hay-her little daughter Hattle, and M Woodworth, wife of Doctor Wooworth, of Wasnington. Last eveni-the Malone Cornet Band and Malo-Glee Club proceeded to the resider of Mr. Wheeler and serenaded his and his distinguished visitors. In anticipation of some such event a large concourse of citizens had congregated. The house was brilliantly gregated. The house was brilliantly lighted. After the band played seyeral familiar airs, Mr. Wheeler cane out upon the verandah, accompanied by Mrs. Hayes. Their appearance was the signal for prolonged and hearly applause on the part of the assembled crowd. When the applause subsided, Mr. Wheeler stepped to the verandah, and spoke as follows:

My FRIENDS: Your sweet notes of welcome are grateful alike to my ears and my heart. But I understand full well that they are not intended sears and my heart. But I understand full well that they are not intended for me alone. In the demonstration you furnish well-merited proof of your regard for my distinguished guest, the worthy wife of the Chief Magistrate of the Nation—a woman who in the brief period of her exalted position has won not only the admiration but the sincere regard of the American people, irrespective of party. And this she has done, not by the arts of society so called, but by strong nature, common sense, and that kind of consideration for others which alone springs from a thoroughly good heart.

street front has a large door in the center, not unlike a fire-engine house. Havana at present has a population of 250,000. Since the outbreak of the rebellion she has grown rapidly, as she has had the entite war business pass through her hands much the same as Washington did during the civil war in the States, and has risen on the tide of prosperity arising from war prices and paper money. She is of course the great commercial center of Cuba, and sells more tobacco and sugar than any other city in the world. In this respect she is unrivalled anywhere. In the number of vessels, tonnage and value of her foreign trade Havana is the second seaport in the New World.

Her trade in tobacco amounts to be tween three and four millions of cigars and cigarettes a day. In 1873 she sold 236,000,000 cigars, 18,100,000 pounds of leaf tobacco, most of which is not content of the content of the count of the control and cleaning of cigars and cigarettes a day. At present the city is poorly supplied with water from aqueducts in the rear of the town. When pains are taken to clean her streets and other sanitary precautions are taken, Havana will probably be no worse off in this respect than New Orleans and other Western towns, for her average temperature is 77 degrees Fabrenheit, but slightly warmer than Key West, where yellow fever is never trouble-

TAMMANY BOUNCES TILDEN.

Few York, May 16.—State Senator Ecclesine, in a speech to his constituents to-night, spoke out the sentiments of Tammany, of which he is a devoted member, toward Tinden. He said, referring to the coming fight in this State for United States Senator:

"We have not only to contend with opposition from men who bave received nothing but kindness at the same from waste.

SENSIBLE TALE.

The Phillsdelphia Times talks good sense in this paragraph:

The Times has had its say on this investigation business, and has said it often enough to make its position netty well understood, but the Democratic leaders cannot be overwarned that they are bungling the job most shamefully and are likely to have only their trouble for their pains. Their course in persisting upon limiting the field of investigation to the boundaries fixed by their own partisan desires is unworthy of the cause that they have esponsed, and has placed the Republicans in an artitude in which they will command general sympathy and applause. The Democrate have made a mistake, and are fairly chargeable with the present interruption of the public business. The sconer they take the back track the better.
